IntelliJ 15.0.1: how to copy and paste content between projects? In earlier versions of IntelliJ I used Ctrl + C or CMD + V to paste content from one project into another. It worked but when i upgraded to IntelliJ 15 it stopped working. I can select text or go to different places in the project but it won't paste the content as it used to do. How do i past the content in the latest version of intellij? I checked the shortcut recorder but couldn't find anything relevant. A: First of all, go to File -> Settings and set Edit settings... for the Copy action to Mouse click. Then you will get the standard options of pasting the content into the current document. What worked before 15.0.1 in the previous version of IntelliJ was probably some JS code based on window.onpaste. Q: Is there a way to get a row's value from a column when using.predict()? There are different ways to get information from a column, the most common is.loc[row, col]. But when using the.predict() method, can you use the same type of syntax to get the information? Currently I'm getting error: TypeError: 'ResultSet' object is not subscriptable This line works: train.loc[row, 'col_name'] And this line doesn't work: test.loc[row].predict() A: The code you've posted seems like you're trying to use the.loc(row,col) syntax on a pandas dataframe. From the docs: The.loc(row,col) syntax is restricted to objects with an Index..loc(row, col) is the equivalent of df.loc[row, col] when df is a pand
